I am a passionate and creative designer with endless desire to grow, to learn, to question certainties, changing them or consolidating them when necessary. My passion towards art and design is the security that moves most of most of my life choices; in fact, I have always thought that Design was the perfect reconciliation between creativity and rationality, the key to giving a form concrete to everything that has no form. Understanding the deep conceptual value that underlies the design, and then bringing it out, giving it an appearance, which has not only aesthetic value but is able to trigger necessary emotions.
